

Forensic RightCall

McGrathNicol Forensic RightCall provides an independent whistleblower reporting service for organisations who strive to conduct business with the highest levels of integrity and transparency.

Today, more than ever, public and private sector organisations are exposed to the risks of fraud, corruption and other inappropriate behaviour. Fraudulent or unethical behaviour may result in financial loss but will also have a negative impact on an organisation's morale, business reputation and, potentially, the livelihood of every employee.

That is why it is important to stamp out unethical conduct.

McGrathNicol Forensic's RightCall is an independent reporting line designed to assist clients implement proactive measures to prevent fraud and misconduct. RightCall empowers employees to report concerns directly to an independent third party. Callers can remain anonymous or disclose their identity as they wish. If a caller wants to remain anonymous, his or her identity will be protected by McGrathNicol Forensic.

Experience shows that employees with integrity concerns prefer to talk it over with someone rather than communicate through voicemail or email. Unfortunately, many employees fear that reporting unethical conduct to management may lead to victimisation or that they won't be taken seriously. Providing staff with an independent whistleblower program as an alternative to reporting through internal channels demonstrates the organisation's commitment to combating fraud and misconduct, and assures the individual that the information received will be treated in the strictest confidence.

How does it work?

- + all calls go to a 1800 toll free number which are answered by trained McGrathNicol staff - we do not and will not use a call centre;
- + information received will be logged into a dedicated database accessible only to accredited McGrathNicol personnel;
- + information received will be forwarded to two nominated client personnel within two hours of the call being received - this communication can be by email in a standard and agreed format which can be encrypted and password protected; and
- + our service is compliant with AS 8004-2003 (Whistleblower Protection Programs for Entities) and the Corporations Act Whistleblower Protection requirements (CLERP 9 amendments).
